Update on Cow Intrusion - As many of us know, cows have come through our fences at multiple locations this week and have once again damaged homeowner's landscaping.

RECOA is working actively with the rancher and we have been informed that the cows will be removed from their current grazing area this week.

ECM has been able to locate a fencing contractor who can respond quickly and emergency fence repairs will begin on Thursday morning. Beyond that we will source multiple quotations for the extensive reinforcing of our fences to a standard that will effectively harden the perimeter of Eagle Crest.

In the meantime I know that homeowners are herding cows away from their gardens but we would strongly advise caution against engaging too closely with the cows who can be extremely dangerous if feeling threatened.
